“Let’s Talk About It” pins are a symbol of awareness to show students:

1) Your acknowledgement of the many ways money issues influence Williams students’ lives, and how it can shape their (and your own) thinking and beliefs.

2) Your willingness to be a listening ear for students facing uncertainty and/or negativity around their financial circumstances, and your lack of assumptions and judgement about them.

3) Your agreement that you will not provide direct advice*, but instead offer to share a bit of your own financial story to help lift the “taboo” of talking about money and class on campus. (For example, where you’ve come from, how you got to where you are now, and how you managed financial situations along the way, especially in college).

*If advice or specific information is needed, please direct students to either the Financial Aid office, Bursar’s office, or Dean’s office. Contact chb3@williams.edu with questions.
