... So after we pick up your bags in San Diego, we go to your daughter's birthday, how'd is she turning? I haven't gotten her a carton credit yet.

'Well, it is getting so cheap now to do it but at least she didn't try to ~~do something~~ a day in her room! I still can't believe my grandson tried to do that, Tania!

Cockroach soup? Oh I miss getting to eat real meat no more insects!

She's turning 26, and already joking about getting frozen cryogenically!

Of course it'd be YOUR grandson, Carlos. Also! When we get back to SF, we need to try this new tarankla quiche place. It's a cute hole-in-the-headwall place under the Half Moon Bay!

Freeze Yourself!
